

Arnaud Roy de Puyfontaine

Position: Director and member of the Strategic Committee

Arnaud Roy de Puyfontaine was born on April 26, 1964 in Paris, France, and is a graduate of the ESCP (1988), the Multimedia Institute (1992) and Harvard Business School (2000).

He is, since December 15, 2015, a member of the Board of Directors of Telecom Italia.

In 1989, he started his career as a consultant at Arthur Andersen and then worked as a project manager at Rhône-Poulenc Pharma in Indonesia.

In 1990, he joined Figaro as Executive Director.

In 1995, as a member of the founding team of the Emap Group in France, he headed Télé Poche and Studio Magazine, managed the acquisition of Télé Star and Télé Star Jeux, and started up the Emap Star Division, before becoming Chief Executive Officer of Emap France in 1998.

In 1999, he was appointed Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Emap France, and, in 2000, joined the Executive Board of Emap Plc. He has led several M&A deals, and concomitantly, from 2000 to 2005, served as Chairman of EMW, the Emap/Wanadoo digital subsidiary.

In August 2006, he was appointed Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Editions Mondadori France. In June 2007, he became General Head of all digital business for the Mondadori Group.

In April 2009, he joined the US HEARST media group as Chief Executive Officer of its UK subsidiary, Hearst UK. In 2011, on behalf of the Hearst Group, he led the acquisition of 102 magazines from the Lagardère Group published abroad, and, in June 2011, was appointed Executive Vice President of Hearst Magazines International.

In May 2012 he joined the Board of Directors of Schibsted. Then, in August 2013, he was appointed Managing Director of Western Europe. He was Chairman of ESCP Europe Alumni.

From January to June 2014, he was a member of Vivendi's Management Board and Senior Executive Vice President in charge of its media and content operations. Since June 24, 2014, he has been CEO and Chairman of the Management Board of Vivendi. He was appointed Deputy Chairman (2016) and Executive Chairman of TIM from June 2017 to May 2018.

He currently holds the following positions within the Vivendi group: CEO and Chairman of the Management Board of Vivendi; Chairman of the Supervisory Board of Universal Music France; Member of the Supervisory Board of Canal+Group; permanent representative of Vivendi on the Supervisory Board of Banijay Group; Director of Havas.

Other positions and functions: Member of the Advisory Committee of Innit; Honorary Chairman of the French-American Foundation.

January 2019